

dainraydevonbooks.com

A Message from Author
DAIN RAY DEVON

To the seniors

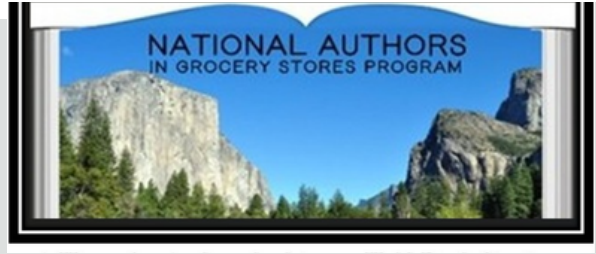

“I want to personally congratulate all students that have finished their high school career and are now entering the second phase of their life: college, trade school, or the work force. No matter what path that you take, I want you to know that the Lord, whom I serve, sees you and knows your path. Always know that you have a purpose! Keep God’s Word within your heart, mind, and soul. Be a light to the world and always remember the source of your gift!

to students from kindergarten to 11th grade

To those who have finished any grade in elementary, middle or high school: Remember that you play an important role. Continue to be the best you and remember God’s words. Read and meditate on them every day! From an author point of view, I believe that children from second grade are always ready for a challenge. I do have one book, called What’s Going on in Room 223, that might be ideal for you.

To the parents/teachers

Teachers and parents, this is a book you will want in your classroom or home library. It is already available to check out at the Greensburg Decatur Public Library in Greensburg, Indiana. If you want a copy of your own, you can order it online at Walmart, Amazon, and Barnes & Nobles. I am going to do author signings at Kroger stores all around Indiana from June 8 to August 31.

