Summer Reading is Upon us!

It's that time again for summer reading! I know that school is out for the summer; however, this does not mean that children should stop reading.

This is why, I, Dain Ray Devon, children's author, am making rounds all around Indiana in the Krogers stores to sale books and promote literacy. I will be at Krogers in Greenwood.

My most recent book, What's Going on in Room 223?, is a great book for teachers and students from third to sixth grade; however, I believe no child should limit him/herself. I believe a second-grade student should be able to read it.

To the parents/teachers

Teachers and parents, this is a book you will want in your classroom or home library. It is already available to check out at the Greensburg Decatur Public Library in Greensburg, Indiana. If you want a copy of your own, you can order it online at Walmart, Amazon, and Barnes & Nobles. I am going to do author signings at Kroger stores all around Indiana from June 8 to August 31.
